OUR COLLABORATIVE CHANGE LENS

Over the last 25 years, we have developed a lens through which we facilitate social change. IISC invites individuals, groups and leaders to shift power dynamics, focus on building networks, and magnify love as a force for social change. Using this collaborative change lens, we see leaders overcome challenges and have astounding impact.

- Power: Equitable and Inclusive Solutions
- Networks: Connectivity and Alignment for Sustainable Change
- Love: Belief and Investment in Ourselves and Others

MISSION

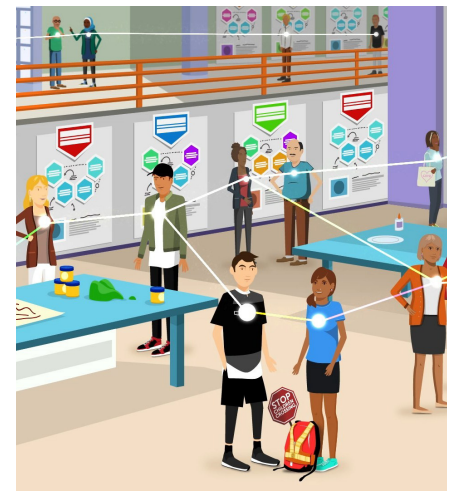

IISC builds collaborative capacity in individuals, organizations, and networks working for social justice and racial equity.

KEY ACCOMPLISHMENTS

- Built capacity for the social sector in the US, Ireland and globally, with skills and tools of collaboration, facilitative leadership, network building, systems change, and the fundamentals of racial justice
- Trained 500+ leaders in 2018 to scale collaborative capacity across the sector
- Trained 5,000+ individuals, in the last two decades, to be facilitative leaders for social justice through our public workshops
- Worked with 450+ nonprofit and public sector organizations, and cross-sector networks, in the last decade, to build collaboration, social justice, and racial equity
- Partnered with several racial equity thought leaders and practitioners including Center for Social Inclusion, and grantmakers including Barr Foundation, DentaQuest Foundation, and Annie E. Casey Foundation, to meet the needs of a changing world

SERVICES

- Advance racial equity by facilitating and supporting understanding and collaboration for equitable outcomes
- Collaborative skills training to create the conditions that unleash ideas, initiative, and expertise
- Facilitation and design that supports decision making and organizational change, and resolves conflict while nurturing innovation
- Network building to foster connectivity, alignment, and action

CONSULTING FEEDBACK

“IISC is a collection of really smart people who work collaboratively to advance really high-quality discussions about a really wide array of topics and bring a “Are you really listening to everyone in room as equals?” standpoint and focusing on unheard voices.”

“Our IISC facilitator called the conversation on race in our very first design team meeting. She emphasized that we can’t let the organizing be all white or we’ll never get where we want to go. It was emergent work. The end game became a deep dive on systems and structures: who is really benefiting? IISC is a very trustworthy organization and is trusted by the community and knowledgeable about diversity.”

“They are good at getting themselves embedded, getting a fast understanding of the substance and the process, being integral to the success of a project. It’s different from some other consultants, who just give advice and get out.”

“I think IISC is a thought leader in terms of engaging stakeholders, experts in building networks and building connections between individuals who work together, connecting the relationship piece of the triangle beyond just professional relationships.”

“Overall IISC trainers were great thought partners and implementers of the work we are doing. We deepened the partnership with IISC to help us develop an arc of learning for our staff to increase their ability to integrate race equity into the work. They helped us think about what that means, what it could look like, and develop a strategy to get results.”

TRAINING FEEDBACK

“Facilitative Leadership was so timely and useful, the very next week we went into the Parcel 24 campaign. I was learning stuff and applying it that same afternoon. My overall sense is that I think-not to be cliché- but it’s this undiscovered secret of how to make things work better.”

“IISC’s workshops are always positive and informative, I always leave eager to dive deeper into the topics discussed. I’ve appreciated the approach with which the facilitators enter the work and create the space to allow people to take off on their own journey.”

“IISC helped me as a group facilitator gain a deeper understanding of problem-solving techniques, conflict resolution, learning how to navigate diverse opinions and how to integrate these theories into group meetings.”
